Please note: The very nature of this conference presupposes that all participants and attendees will listen patiently and carefully, giving the benefit of the doubt, and will not make condemning reports verbally or in periodicals, on list serves, or in blogs. Pejorative language will not be tolerated at the conference.

What is the meaning of the symbol on the front?

VDMA stands for the Latin phrase: Verbum Domini Manet in Aeternum or in English: The Word of the Lord Endures Forever. This battle cry of the Reformation comes through in various hymns such as in A Mighty Fortress: "The Word they still shall let remain." It reminds us that the Scriptures are the only sure guide for faith and life.

The following groups are represented at this conference:

These Confessional Lutheran Free Conferences are held for the express purpose of discovering and building fellowship among confessional Lutherans. As such they are different from free conferences that are primarily concerned with education or promotion of Lutheran doctrine.

They were initiated by the Orthodox Lutheran Confessional Conference (OLCC), which hosted the first two conferences.

The following are scheduled to speak:

Rev. Steven Brockdorf (ACLCLC)

The Presence of the Church.

Rev. Jack Cascione (ULMA)

The Supremacy of the Voters Assembly

Rev. Martin Diers (OLCC)

The Bishop's Bequest: human accord or divine decree?

Rev. Roger Fehr (OLCC)

The Keys, The Confessions, and Consistency

Rev. Leslie Lanier (ACLCLC)

Waltherian Polity in Context

Rev. John Rutowicz (ELDoNA) with lay reactor

Episcopal Polity in Historic Lutheranism

Round Table Discussion:

What keeps us from fellowship?
